

What Are the Top Male Masturbation Toys?

If you've ever wondered the best way to masturbate, it's definitely using male sex toys. They have a special way of increasing the stimulation so much that you even might like to male masturbate more than actual sex. Sex toys are so advanced that they feel real, stay in place, and even simulate actual sex acts.

The Fleshlight is a sex toy for guys that takes male masturbation a step further than it's been in the past. Typically, how to male masturbate with the Fleshlight is to basically give yourself a handjob with the Fleshlight. The hole of the Fleshlight is designed to look like various body openings, and the inside texture are customizable. You can combine male masturbate techniques with it to achieve a superior orgasm time and time again for a low one-time cost.

Alternatively, if you want something that requires less work, try the Autoblow. Favored by men who previously used the Fleshlight for male masturbation, the Autoblow functions on its own without having to hold it. It is bigger than the Fleshlight and doesn't look as realistic, but it feels really close to an actual blowjob. If you ever wanted to know how to male masturbate without lifting a finger, the Autoblow is it.

Still, even the best way to masturbate can be improved with extra stimulation, and that comes from the Aneros. The Aneros is a prostate massager that rubs against the male g-spot while you are getting off. No matter how you're stroking your cock, the hands-free Aneros will cause so much extra stimulation to your male masturbating techniques that you'll be shooting out cum everywhere. If you've never tried using toys when you male masturbate, now is the time to realize your dick's true potential.